

This was kinda fun. I have done a lot of turn arounds before but I've never made a rough model based on a turn around ive made. I would say the hardest part of it was the armor. This was definitely my biggest weakness in making the turn around: some of the armor doesn't look right in some angles. So 3d modeling it was harder having to adjust it to make it better as I went but in the end I think it turned out alright.

