

I do kinda regret choosing to do a fan for project 1 a little now. It took a longer time to unwrap it than I would have thought. It was a bit of a struggle mostly because it was time consuming not because it was hard. I also found some problems with my geometry that I had to go back and fix. The pipes were pretty easy to uv. I didn't have any problems with them because they weren't as complex as the fan. I even got to texture them because im also using them for the group project class

<https://github.com/tbmkylerogers-lab/Animation-Program>

